Q But you didn't care to go away?

A No, sir.

Q You never saw Mrs. Hall then, did you, after the murder?

A I have seen her cars, sometimes, on the public street.

Q She never stopped and spoke to you?

A No, sir.

Q And you never had a chance to speak to her?

A No.

Q You were examined by the police, weren't you, I mean they took a statement from you at my request that you signed and swore to?

A Yes, sir.

Q Did you tell anything that I have omitted to ask you about this case. Do you know anything about your mother's death or the events leading up to it, or the events preceding it that would in any way throw light on this double murder?

MR. PFEIFFER: I object to that in the examination of this witness.

MR. SIMPSON: This is a preliminary examination. If I have omitted to ask her anything and she knows anything, surely the counsel who is striving for the truth would be very glad to have her tell it if I have omitted it.

MR. PFEIFFER: I withdraw my objection.

COURT: Is there anything else you have not told
